THAT BIG LIBERTY BOND DRIVE.

Well, boys, what do you think of it? It makes you feel a little chesty, doesn't it? Proud to be an American, aren't you? Of course you are, and so is everyone who is not obsessed with thoughts of sordid gain or filthy lucre.

Don't be a pessimist and say that it was a frame-up or that the treasury department sent out false reports to delude the people into believing we were going to fall down in the biggest undertaking ever financed by a nation.

Three billion dollars; thirty dollars for every man, woman and child in the United States. That was something like a man's job and one that we are all proud of. The immensity of the movement can hardly be grasped but, while the aggregate was of such appalling proportions, the fact that the last big drive converted the deficit into a magnificent surplus, is the real proof that the American peoples have become aroused to the fact that we are at war and that war cannot be conducted without money.

Did you notice in the same issue of the Bonanza yesterday that announced the consummation of the Liberty Loan campaign that the president had signed the biggest appropriation bill ever placed before the world by a single-minded nation? That is what your money and the money of every true blooded patriot is wanted for. This war is a matter of huge figures, but figures of themselves have no meaning unless they are backed by the cold coin that can be employed to buy everything that goes to outfit an army. Remember the first call is for a million men who must be clothed and fed. The mere matter of uniforms will call for 14,000,000 pounds of wool to be woven into cloth. This one item implies the outlay of $9,000,000 before the weavers start their shuttles spinning through the looms. Then as much more will be demanded for the next call and before these uniforms are seen in service on the front there will come the call for twice as much wool and woolen equipment for man and beast to protect our forces from the inclemency of wintering in the trenches. This is simply beginning an endless chain calling for steel, ships, guns, powder and shells, food and commodities of every kind, thousands of miles of railroad construction and hundreds of locomotives and cars. These are only mentioned to give the superficial a vague sense of what is required in modern warfare.

The United States got there anyway and, when another call is made the citizens of this country will be educated to a keener sense of the requirements of men afield through letters from their own brothers and sons which will make the second issue more easily attainable.

But first get the germ out of your mind that there was any frame-up about this bond business. Uncle Sam has a serious job on his hands and he is not going to begin by hoodwinking anybody like a thimble-rigging mountebank, a circus faker, a race track tout or a patent medicine vendor trying to unload a bunch of nostrums. If you seriously think the administration at Washington is engaged in this petty panhandling divest yourself of the brain storm and go off into a lonely nook of the desert where you can jar your thoughts back into the right channel.

But, to come back home. Our home. Little old Tonopah, the camp of promise that has given a hundred millions in gold and silver to the world. We raised $25,000, which was doing pretty good for a two of 7000 people of various nationalities, or $75 for every soul within its limit. The registration shows Nye county has but one alien enemy within its boundaries. The subscriptions look like it. The man with a grouchy or envious rivals may say that the mining companies boosted the game. Naturally, why shouldn't they? They have taken millions from this drab old desert and distributed $26,400,000 in dividends during the last 14 years. Then, why should not they be grateful and manifest a willingness to share the privilege of helping the nation in the name of the town that gave them what they possess? Other cities have their big corporations, banks with deposits of forty and fifty million dollars from which they drew with the liberality of Croesus but, when it comes to the final showdown, it will be found that few places in the United States gave as freely and as generously as Tonopah and her suburban camps.

WELFARE WORK FOR THE ARMY.

THE visit of an agent of the red triangle, under which banner the Y. M. C. A. operates in the army and navy, should receive the substantial support of every citizen who can afford to contribute to the cause. These stations are of infinite benefit to the boys at the front or in training camps as they furnish him with healthful recreation and a place where he can drop in for a few hours relaxation after the hard driving exercises of the day. In these stations the soldier or recruit can find all the materials he needs for writing to the folks at home or keeping in loving communication with the dear sweetheart left behind when the boy decided to join the colors and devote his life to the salvation of his country. Games, amusements, movies, magazines and the leading daily papers are kept on file for the men who are suddenly deprived of home comforts and forced to submit to the rigorous discipline of camp life. Homesickness is the greatest malady that boys in the field have to contend with and any agency that helps alleviate the despondency is welcomed by every commander. The welfare work of the army and navy is not restricted to mental gymnastics, but it also applies to development of the physical system through cultivation of games both in and outdoors to keep the mind in a healthy state. No government has assumed to fill this aching void, but the philanthropy that steadies the recruit by furnishing him with entertainment and diversion is recognized as one of the modern corollaries of every army. The Y. M. C. A. is doing a noble work, one that cannot be superseded by any amount of discipline. In this connection it is timely to remark that the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic organization, has appropriated $1,000,000 for the same class of work without regard to sect, color or creed. This society worked side by side with the Y. M. C. A. on the Mexican frontier and had it not been for the activities of these institutions the percentage of desertions and sickness would have been vastly increased. Nothing is too good for our boys while away from comfortable homes and surrounded by temptations on every side. The old motto of Father Jahn who organized the Turnvereins, found in every large American city, is a good one to engage our most earnest thought. This is that "a healthy mind makes a healthy body." Everybody should give freely and willingly, not as a charity but as a duty we owe the men in the field or at the front.

ACT ON THE SQUARE.

IF THE administration wants to enforce prohibition under another name, why not do so directly instead of fiddling around in a badger hunt by taxing the products of distilleries and breweries out of business? Under the pretext of increasing the revenue some bigots and narrow-minded intolerants are trying to place on grain used in making beverages an impost that will seal the doors of every saloon in the country. The result will be seen in the loss of revenue which the nation cannot afford to suffer at this crisis that must follow the infliction of a tax equivalent to $20 a gallon on alcoholic liquors. No dealer can afford to continue in business with this penalty. Instead of dealing in equivocation and subterfuge the senate should cease beating about the bush and come out openly either for prohibition or a reasonable war tax. There is no middle ground. Distillers and brewers have always borne the brunt of special taxes and these men have always done their share cheerfully in furnishing the sinews of war. The same questions have been threshed out in the British possessions with the result that it was deemed prudent to refrain from extreme measures in enacting excise laws covering the dispensing of liquors. Regulation has been found more effective than suppression and, today, the result is seen in the vastly increased output of munitions in every British manufacturing district, which the straightlaced teetotallers admit is due to a wise dispensation of the government in not withholding supplies from producers of malt and spirituous liquors. England concedes that the tavern is the poor man's club and legislates in such a way that the poor man is not deprived of a temperate use of beverages to which he has been accustomed all his life. Washington should take counsel of the English in not driving a willing horse to death.

Three cheers for the red, white and blue. When the country realized that it was necessary to wake up and do something with the Liberty Bonds the people acted with a spontaneity that carried the question over the Rubicon which menaced its safety.

Native sons did the right thing at the eleventh hour and a half by coming through with their quota of Liberty Bonds.

There is but one way to do a thing and that is to do it right.
